ART EDUCATION

The Master of Education degree program in art education allows the graduate student to integrate art education, studio, art history and related academic areas (e.g., psychology, special education, technology and innovation, and languages and cultures). Graduate students are encouraged to experiment and explore in a variety of areas.

The Department of Art is housed in a well-designed and spacious art building, Breidenstine Hall. The 56,000-square-foot facility includes uniquely designed studios for ceramics, design, drawing, metalsmithing, painting, photography, printmaking and sculpture. It also houses two art galleries, a digital fabrication lab, and a large art history lecture room. Up-to-date tools and equipment offer students the opportunity to explore a wide variety of art processes.

Qualtve & Arts-Based Rsrch Mth
For graduate students from across the university community whose research questions may best be answered through qualitative research and/or arts-based research methods. This course provides students an opportunity to investigate and consider the applications of a number of qualitative and arts-based research methods to their emerging ideas and designs for conducting research in their respective fields. The emphasis will be on identifying and evaluating prospective research problems and questions, examination of related research literature, and development of a research project proposal. This course is an intermediate level methods class with a prerequisite of EDFN 601 or enrollment in the Expressive Arts certificate program.

ART 603: 3 s.h.
Assessment in Art Education
Examine various theories and methods of assessment of why, what, and how to assess art. Students will work together to identify assessment dilemmas present in their classrooms and using texts, each other, and their own experiences, work together to create potential solutions. The aims of this course are to help students build relevant and immediately applicable tools to use in K-12 classrooms and to build a learning community for art educators in which they can explore assessment issues particularly relevant for their subject matter.
