

GEOLOGY MINOR

The geology minor provides foundational knowledge in geology appropriate for students interested in agriculture, archeology, biology, climate, emergency management, or environmental policy. This minor is perfect for those students passionate about how the Earth transforms over time through tectonic processes, how landforms develop, or how Earth resources are formed and used.