This 18 credit minor provides the quantitative and technical skills that are valued by both employers and graduate programs in environmental science. This minor includes a number of options geared towards a wide range of fields; students are able to tailor this minor to reflect their interests and equip them to pursue their professional aspirations in diverse environmental careers.